JERSEY'S TOMATO GLUT .- At Salem, N. J., the past week's rush of tomatoes to the canneries made a glut which could not possibly be taken care of, and those farmers who declined last winter to make contracts with the packers at $6 per ton have been sorry, indeed, for they have had hundreds of tons left on their bands. The rush has been so great that the packers were overwhelmed, the capacity of their plants being wholly in ufficient to meet the requirements. The tomatoes seem to have ripened all at once, and the growers have kept wegons going as fast as men could load and haul them. As the capperies became choked the wagons had to stand in long lines awaiting their turns, and the farmers, unbitching their horses, have returned for other vehicles, which had been pressed into service. At one plant in Alloway on Friday last 125 wagons were compelled to work far into the night to catch up to the great influx. In some cases the packers' stock of cans ran out and men had to be put to work to replenish the supply. Through their inability to get their wagons unloaded at the canneries many of the growers were compelled to see hundreds of tons of richly-ripened vegetables rot in the fields.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A Prominent Virginia Editor Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by cham-berlain's Colic, Cholera and Diar-rhoea Remedy—Read His Editoral. From the Times, Hillstille, Va.

I suffered with darrhoes for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a bale and hearty man today and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—
